Please see the note below introducing the website for the "Working Together" Project.

This website is one component of a national project that examines the public library's role in community development - a topic of interest to many trustees around the province.

Subject: [BCLA-List] Working Together National Demonstration Project Website

Hello,

We are pleased to announce that the Working Together Project's website is now live at <http://www.librariesincommunities.ca>

We will be adding additional content to the site as we create it and look forward to participating in discussions on community development in a library context.

Thanks,

Sandra
